

MAWE COFFEE TABLE

Designed by Yasemin Derici

The sculptural, totemic coffee tables, are designed taking inspiration from the "Moai" sculptures in Ahu Akivi, are made from natural stone and tinted glass.

The base is carved from a single block of natural stone.

The glass dividing the top marble piece and the main body tries to show how a strong rock can actually be fragile just like nature, and also creates a decorative effect with the marble texture that rises to the surface in its place.

Hidden joint detail brings together the top marble piece, glass, and base in a practical way.
